

The Evolution of Value-Added in Private Wealth Management and the Asset-Liability Management Approach

An exclusive presentation of the results of an EDHEC-Risk Survey of European Private Wealth Management: best practices and an overview of Private ALM solutions

September 30th, 2010 - Hotel Le Royal - Luxembourg

The Evolution of Value-Added in Private Wealth Management and the Asset-Liability Management Approach

Private wealth managers generally see customised advice as a key source of their value added. However, there is no systematic research that assesses how private wealth management practice addresses different investor objectives and risk definitions. The academic literature on asset allocation provides insights on a range of factors that affect investors' optimal portfolios including consumption and bequest objectives, background income, time horizon, and risk aversion. However, implementation of customised asset allocation models remains a challenge in practice.

Since there is no comprehensive evidence to date on how investment strategies in private wealth management are designed, how client objectives are taken into account and what role the various financial tools play in the investment process, EDHEC-Risk Institute decided to conduct a comprehensive survey of the practices of European private wealth managers. A detailed analysis of the results allows for an assessment of the extent to which the knowledge created through academic research spreads to practice. The results also provide a useful benchmark of European industry practices in private wealth management that may serve as a reference point for wealth managers that wish to compare themselves to their peers.

As part of the "Private Asset-Liability Management" Research Chair at EDHEC-Risk Institute in partnership with Ortec Finance, we will be pleased to welcome you to an early evening seminar in Luxembourg, at Le Royal on Thursday 30th September 2010.

As well as presenting the results of the EDHEC-Risk Survey of European Private Wealth Management Practices launched in May 2010, these events will include a focus on understanding the application of the Asset-Liability Management (ALM) methodology in Private Wealth Management (PWM). In addition, representatives from Ortec Finance will present Ortec Finance solutions developed for Private ALM for different client segments ranging from retail to private banks.

Conducted by Felix Goltz, PhD, Head of Applied Research, and Noël Amenc, Director, EDHEC-Risk Institute, this seminar will be a unique opportunity to discuss the challenges in private wealth management and take a detailed look at the landscape of Private Wealth Management in Europe.
